MANUFACTURERS OF LAP WELDED
Tubing & Casing
Both Plain and Galvanized, for Oil and Salt Wells, American Charcoal Iron Boiler Tubes, Lap Welded Tubing for Steam and Water.

SOLE MANUFACTURERS OF
W. C. ALLISON'S
PATENT JOINT
Oil Well Tubing.
This Superior Tubing is furnished with heavy sockets, and is cut with a vanishing screw thread, corresponding exactly with the thread in the socket, so that when screwed up it has a bearing the whole length of the joint; and the absence of a deep thread on the tube at the end of the socket obviates the liability to break at that point from the vibration caused by the action of the pump.
Each length and socket is stamped with our trade mark, and is carefully tested before shipment with a hydraulic pressure of 1,200 pounds to the square inch.

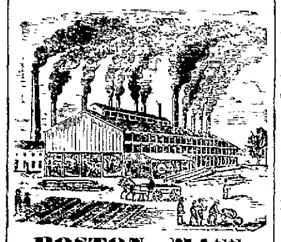
TUBE WORKS CO.,



BOSTON, MASS.
MANUFACTURERS OF
LAP-WELDED OIL WELL
Tubing & Casing.
We would call the particular attention of dealers and producers to this make of Tubing and Casing. One of the important features in the manufacture of our Tubing is, that the Lap and the Weld
are made perfectly straight, smooth and uniform, thereby giving equal and great strength to the tubing throughout.
Each joint carefully inspected, reamed at end, and proved with the sockets on at a hydraulic pressure of 1,200 pounds to the square inch before shipment.
Each length stamped with our trade mark,
Diamond "S."

Titusville Morning Herald.
Seventh Annual Address
OF THE CARRIERS OF THE MORNING HERALD, TO THEIR HOME PATRONS, JANUARY 1, 1872.

On the wind's waves it floats away,
The death knell of another year;
Her Autumn leaves and memories gray
Never again to us appear.

But on the coming wings of night,
From out the airy belfry tower,
Comes forth the mellow sounding chime,
In cadence joyful and sublime,
While we expectant wait to hear—
It is the marriage song of Time,
The bridgroom is another Year.

Peal, peal, ye solemn merry chimes!
O death and birth ye speak us well,
Ring out the past, ring in the new,
Only an instant intervenes
'Twixt Seventy-one and Seventy-two.

In that swift space that stand between—
'Twixt the twin years—a story's told;
And while the echoes round us cling,
We'll write the history the bells sing:

'Tis here, where once a sterile soil
Poorly repaid a year of toil,
In valley centre, on mountain slope,
A city from the woods awoke.
Its people ask not from the land
The recompense of farmer's hand;
They care not for the sun or rain,
For seed-time, harvest, fruit or grain,
For surface barrenness or health;
Far deep down in the caverned earth,
And not from off her fertile plains,
They draw illimitable wealth.

They built a city where the shock
Of waters as they run,
Opened the adamantine rock,
Long hidden to the eye of man.
Then science skimmed the greasy wave,
And swift returned with nature's spoil;
A bountiful gift to man she gave—
Light of the world, the treasure Oil!
Where on the world's map shall we seek
For stream more famous than Oil Creek?

OIL CREEK.

Where is the place the waters rise?
Upon yon mount whose highest peak
Has pierced the clouds to reach the skies?
Or do they everlasting flow
From melting towers of ice and snow?
Or boast they not so high a birth,
Starting far lower from the earth?
In secret does its channel fill,
From cavern deep in vaulted hill;
Or like the mighty Amazon,
Whose source is said to rest upon
A single drop of dew,
Which a warm sun does not take up,
But leaves within its rocky cup
Till other drops renew?
The globule could not fill the beak
Of tiniest warbler on the peak;
Each day is new supplied
By other drops to it allied;
Then brimming to the overflow,
Falls noiseless on the bed below:
Then pushing on, far down the hill,
A trickling, unpretentious rill,
Bursting through tunneled way in jets,
Into a dozen rivulets,
Joining again far down, is seen
A laughing, joyous mountain stream

Again upon the waters look.
It is a troubled, noisy brook;
Down high cascade new plains to seek,
A rapid, rushing, wandering Creek,
From neighboring streams to tribute claim
And ofttix River to its name.
Flowing round hill, through meadows green,
Through forest depths, unknown, unseen,
Where water fowl frequent the bank,
And hide 'mid lilies growing rank,
Where river goddess combs her hair
With pendant thorn-brush growing there,
And the nude Naiads of the flood
Sport with rude Dryads from the wood.

Deepening, contracting to span,
Again widespreading at the dam;
Then leaping down in mimic strife,
Each billow gifted seems with life,
Writhing and breathing nature's groans,
Lashed into foam among the stones.
And now through marshes low and damp
It threads the pestilential swamp,
Where slimy snake and turtle breeds,
Where every loathsome insect feeds,
Upon decayed and growing weeds;
Where foul miasma's hated breath
Is formed to fill the wings of death,
And noxious gases from the damps
Are fuel for fire-flying lamps;
Giving the swamp-fiend ample light
Throughout the black and bitter night
To inspect uncovered domain,
Where unmolested he may reign.

By many freshets it has made
The spot once barren now a shade,
For it has borne rich muck and seeds
From other lands to fill those needs,
And planted them with greatest care
Upon the sterile place and bare,
Making where'er it overflows
The desert blosom like the rose.

Swift turning round the mountain steep,
Through rustic churchyard lone to weep,
Its sober wavelets softly moan
A funeral dirge round tomb and stone;
And many a mile of mournful song
The solemn river does prolong,
And the high hills that rise around
In echoes still repeat the sound.
Singing at morn, at noon, at even,
'Tis nature's hymn thrown up to Heaven.

TITUSVILLE.

Now, guided by the river sprite,
I will steal back in shades of night
Through matted wood, through stream cut hill,
Back to your thrifty TITUSVILLE!

* * * * *

Back to the spot you love the best,
Where all your labors have been blest;
The spot where taste and skill combined
Leave choicest pictures in the mind.

* * * * *

Here where so many spires arise,
And through the mists point to the skies;
Here where the plastic hand of trade
Has many a palace block arrayed;
Here where inventive genius comes
To take the toil from laborer's looms,
And ore and oil refined at will,
In blazing furnace, bubbling still;
Here paved street and lighted square,
The large Hotel and Opera there—
And answering to the Press's clank,
That swings through night till morning breaks,
The iron horse, with steaming flank,
Snorts, as his giant limbs he shakes,
All undecoded which to take,
Of many roads in front or wake:
For rumors are rife from far and near,
Of many railroads centering here;
Which in the modern estimation,
Compose the wealth of State and Nation.
Yes, now the din and hum of trade
Rise from the spot where in unrest,
The eaglet screamed from city nest;
Where panther, wolf, and timid fawn
Scaled the high hill or coursed the lawn,
To-day we see in shambles flung
An scattered Stag, of ancient school,
Who, when this stream to woodlands sung,
Bore here unquestioned rule.
Here by the many lights that gleam,
Reflected in the stream below,
In reverie lost I'll paint and dream
His picture in the moons ago.

THE MONARCH OF THE GLEN.

His front feet resting on the sod,
His haunch hoofs settling in the fen,
In all the luxury of strength
He stands the Monarch of the Glen!
I watch him now with head erect,
Distended ears to catch each sound;
The graceful movement of the neck,
And piercing glance of his bright eye,
That travels all the forest round.
The swamp wind whistles through his horns,
Ruffles the tippit on his neck,
He only heeds the sound it brings,
Going or coming at his beck;
His nostrils opened to the breeze,
He scents the danger from afar,
Chooses his pathway through the trees,
And swift prepares for sylvan war.
Perhaps he sees on yonder crag
The hostile front of rival stag;
Perhaps he views with tender eye
The gambols of the distant fawn—
Through the dim aisles of oak can spy
Their ease upon secluded lawn.
Again, when winter like a vice,
Locks up the friendly stream with ice,
And instinct tells him to invent
Means to throw off the hounds' keen scent,
By snow impeded in his flight,
Standing at bay for final fight,
With sheltering mountain at his back
He faces all the yelling pack;
And covered by his antlers large
Repels the hounds' impetuous charge;
Their peer in courage, speed, and strength,
To fate and numbers yields at length,
Sinks down upon the dogs he's slain,
Never to run, or fight again,
Or, alas, escaping such a death,
Some eve in June, when the hot breath
Of summer sun withdraws awhile,
Earth panting for the moon's sweet smile;
With harem following to slake
Their thirst in the near mountain lake,
Lured by the hunter's torch of pine,
Seeking the place where waters shine—
Like erring Eve, so e'en is he
Undone by curiosity.
Sometimes within the manor hall,
Adorned with many a captured crest,
When gathered Nimrods, rude and blunt,
Responding to the master's call,
Tell their long stories of the hunt,
Each anxious to outdo the rest,
Rise round the board in fierce dispute;
The courteous host still standing mute,
At once to silence bluff and brag,
Points to the antlers of the Stag!

Where is the place his couch is laid?
Where is the spot his home is made?
The place by mountain breezes aired,
The spot by dews from Heaven prepared;
Through nature's realm he loves to roam,
In every land he claims a home.
His bathes where tortuous Ural wild
Sings to fierce dreams the Tartar child;
Drinks waters that give rivers birth
In the secluded parts of earth.
His food to nature only known
By man, unharvested, unsown;
Rolls in deep furrows where the sod
Heaves with the lightning stroke of God;
Leaves wolves in forests without bound,
Unechoing to human sound.

Born of the mountain and the wood,
Heir of the prairie and the flood,
Twin of the Indian, over rule
In Nature's kingdom and God's school!
Gift to each land within our clime,
Our doe and fawn to watch and wait,
For summer on the hills of Maine,
Or spring time at the Golden Gate!

CHICAGO.

'Tis said that in the year that's gone,
All through the borders of the land
Unmenaced peace hath reigned alone,
And Mars hath stayed his bloody hand;
But that an element so new,
Of red destruction swift and sure,
Out the burning heavens blew.
Where once the palaces of trade,
The gorgeous homes, the churches tall,
And all the structures man had made,
Together with the riches,
All to ashes turned.
That forest vast and prairie wide
Melted and shriveled in this tide,
Bereft the stricken thousands stood,
Houseless, unclothed, and without food,
A world's full heart responsive beat
In one great throb of sympathy,
Her suffering brethren to greet.
Oh! miracle of charity!
Nations arose without request,
Rained food and treasure on the West.

Science, we turn again to thee.
Disclose the perils of the sea.
Storms thou foretell'st on land, can we
Convey the secret to the sea?
Disarm this enemy of man.
Let not the waters and the fire
Another year in desperate strife,
Unchecked, and in their mad desire,
Compete for property and life.

PUBLIC AFFAIRS.

The Giant Debt for six years borne,
Again is dwarfed this New Year morn,
We to ill-boding croakers say
See NINETY MILLIONS rolled away!

The bells again they sing and chant
The praises of our PRESIDENT,
Who as a soldier carved his name
And to it added statesman's fame.
The man who from the people sprung,
With working brain and silent tongue,
Who caused all civil strife to cease,
And crowned his victories of war
With greater victories of peace.

ALEXIS.

A Duke has come! for him make room,
His father was our friend;
In courtesy and fellowship,
We'll welcome him with hearty grip;
A friend in need, a prince indeed,
A friend in peace, a friend in war,
Welcome! thou son of Prussian Czar.

THE FUTURE OF TITUSVILLE.

Now, we in the future grope,
O east this city's horoscope;
We see long lines of street expand,
To corporate contiguous land.
Nations for its vast stores await,
Plenty sits smiling at its gate.
Then shall our eyes expectant greet
Our Court House in our County Seat.
Where law and justice are dispensed,
Lawyer and client recompensed.

CITY HOSPITAL

Where God sends plenty and rich store,
Are always found the sick and poor;
They justly claim from the full hand
The gleanings of a prospered land.
God bless the ladies! tis with them
The aid and comfort shall begin,
And they shall build upon this soil
A spacious City Hospital;
Where grim disease's fell hand is stayed,
And all its pangs and pains allayed.

COMMON SCHOOLS.

Increase the schools—in them expand,
The brain and sinew of our land.
God gave Eternal Charter when
He made our fathers thinking men,
And 'tis in them that o'en now grow
Our Presidents in future.

THE WALTON CLUB.

The Walton Club! Oh! genial souls,
Re-write their names on memory's scrolls,
Whom their last year's short vacation,
Gained title good, by association,
To a fair Isle, where Beauties stand
Unrivaled in the beauteous land.
When we next summer seek our ease,
Far from dull business' toils,
We'll smoke our friendly pipe of peace,
From life we'll take a longer lease,
Amid the Thousand Isles!

The bells have ceased, no more along
Divided years drift the full song,

FAREWELL.

He comes, the prompt and faithful comes,
The one who every morning brings
That for which all have appetite,
Events and news his offerings,
And knows that you will fill with joy
The brave heart of your CARRIER Boy.

The Factories of England.

SUFFERINGS OF WORKMEN.

In the course of an article on Sanitary Reform in Chambers's Journal an intelligent writer says:

"If we turn back to the unhealthy state of the air in factories and workshops, it may be observed that the workmen of all countries show such a carelessness about their health that the best reforms often fail through the want of their co-operation. In some trades where poisonous substances are used the masters have tried to enforce the wearing of gloves or the frequent washing of the hands; yet the men have refused to conform to such simple injunctions. At a manufactory in the neighborhood of Newcastle, the workmen threatened to leave because they were desired to take baths at certain intervals. But nevertheless, great improvements have taken place in the last fifty years. White-lead, which is one of the most dangerous compounds of oil-paint, has been rendered almost, innocuous; and the largest manufacturers can now boast that years will pass without any of their men being attacked by colic; which is chiefly due to strict attention to the laws of cleanliness. The making of matches requires many dangerous operations, such as dipping the bunches into inflammable paste and placing them, when finished, in boxes. In the first of these the maker constantly breathes phosphoric vapor, and in the second, which is chiefly performed by women, spontaneous combustion frequently occurs, causing serious wounds on the hands. These have both been remedied by using machines instead of the hands, and a still greater benefit has arisen by a different preparation of phosphorus being employed.

"The Sheffield cutlers have suffered severely from the sharpening of steel knives and needles; the fine dust entering the mouth and nostrils, and the constant stooping over the grindstone deforming the chest. The preparation of skins and leather place the currier in an unwholesome atmosphere; and the cotton-mills of Lancashire have a bad reputation. Ventilation is the principal remedy against these maladies.

"As for the long trail of smoke which our large factories emit from their chimneys, much has already been done to lessen it, though there is still great room for improvement. At one time, it was suggested that if they were built to an immense height, the smoke would cease to be obnoxious, and Glasgow points with pride to some of these columns, higher than any building in the world, excepting the spire of the Strasburg cathedral and the largest pyramid of Egypt. But this was a very imperfect proceeding. There was nothing in the air to neutralize these emanations, and though the particles fell at a greater distance, attenuated, it is true, they were just as mischievous. Coal-smoke is very disagreeable, but other gases from chemical works act as a moral poison on vegetation. Such are the nitrous and sulphuric vapors from the manufactories of these acids; whilst the smelting of iron ore renders a country sterile for miles around. One of the most curious effects of this kind is to be found in the smoke of lime-kilns on the vineyards of France; it gives the grapes and wine for some distance round a disagreeable taste; and in Burgundy the kilns are always interrupted in their work from the time of the flowering of the vines to the season of ingathering. In the previous case, condensation of the injurious vapors before leaving the chimney has been found eminently serviceable."

SERIOUS RIOT

Special to the Herald

ROCHESTER, Jan 3—7 13 p m

A little white girl was terribly outraged and almost killed by a negro named Howard She lived on Francis street The negro is in jail There has been great excitement all day, and the mob made attacks on the jail, but were repulsed each time by the military and police on duty Another row is expected to night and more to-morrow L ANGAVINE

ROCHESTER Jan 3—9 27 p m

The military have fired on the mob at the jail, and two men were killed, John Eller and John Gostson John Hilbesa was shot in the leg, and a boy, name not known, shot in the shoulder The excitement is great, and the people are rushing to the scene L ANGAVINE

ROCHESTER, N Y Jan 3

The excitement caused by the atrocity committed by the negro Howard on a child ten years of age, has not abated There is now an immense crowd about the jail, and they are frantic Very few report that the little girl has died of her injuries The evening papers are out with evidence against Howard It is conclusive, and leaves no doubt that he is the man who committed the outrage The police are at the jail, and the military are assembling at the arsenal Attacks are made by roughs and boys on unoffending negroes who appear in the streets It is feared that there will be an outbreak to-night The sheriff and his aids stand firm, and are determined to uphold the law

LATER —The police have dispersed the crowd about the jail and quiet prevails The grand jury is in session and they will indict Howard, and to-morrow forenoon he will be brought into court to plead to the indictment Efforts were made this evening to have him plead guilty, but he refuses and says he is innocent, but either a negro or a mulattoe is implicated It would seem almost criminal to take Howard to jail at present, as the mob would rescue him from the authorities and kill him

LATEST —There is a mob about the jail yelling and shouting and there have been several stones thrown at the military The police, as both arrived, are again ordered to their

About nine p m, while crowd was yelling at the corner of Court and Exchange street the mob attacked a boy, killing two men and wounding another and one boy The names of the killed are John Eller, a German and Henry Melow John Hilber was shot through the leg and badly wounded The name of this person is unknown He was in the shadow The excitement is great, and people are hurrying to the scene of conflict The crowd at first was not necessarily large, yet the military say they were compelled to protect themselves, as they were assaulted with stones

An account of the difficulties is thus given by an officer with the Lieutenant Branch The crowd at the military lines across the west end of the bridge facing Exchange street A man stepped up to Policeman Branch and said to some of the boys, few words, and they ran away At the same instant the word forward was given by the officer in command and the crowd and the shots were fired in the air Immediately shot were fired in Exchange street and had not proceeded with the mob Later when highly respectable and influential Germans came to the front but a short time before a large and orderly woman was seen to fall and die, and the feeling against the military is intense The people are being drawn in from the outer districts of the city and dispatched to the vicinity of the jail for it is feared that more blood will be shed before morning The leading people are striving to the utmost to avert a conflict, and are deemed successful

ARREST OF BRIGHAM YOUNG

SALT LAKE Jan

Brigham Young was arrested this morning at his residence in this city by the United States Marshal, charged with murder Application for release on bail will be heard at 2 p m by J Jeff Rob

SECOND DISTRICT—Before Judge Wallace

Indictments against Sam Dodge, H H Wells, H B Clawson, and Bishop of church dignitaries, applied to Chief Justice McKean to quash the indictment for murder The court room was crowded Much anxiety was evinced on the part of Brigham, but not the least show of the slightest interest on the part of the court Hon C A Emerson and Hon Fitch for the prisoners, United States Attorney Bates for prosecution Hearing moved the quashing of the indictment on the ground that the was an old man sixty years of age, and had not had the least some 100 miles from the scene of his other charges, and his physical condition that imprisonment would make it fatal to him Bates offered no opposition to bail, but suggested that it was taking would be fixed at $50 000 Judge McKean said the government of the United States had a full in this city, and that prisoner should be released to the United States courts The Marshal is required to exercise his discretion which he has not in him Some time such prisoners are kept at Camp Douglas but the commander of the post is not bound to receive them The prisoner is reported owner of several hundred in the city He chose to put under control of the Marshal some suitable portion of building in which to be detained, it will be for the Marshal to decide whether to adopt it It is the duty of the prisoner to make such an offer, but in case the Marshal will decide that the room for the prisoner is provided, remembering he is an old man We decline to admit the defendant to bail following the court Brigham conducted the Marshal his residence on South Temple street, which was occupied and Brigham is now a prisoner in his own home Brigham seemed perfectly and cheerful

THE GRAND DUKE

CHICAGO, Jan 3

This evening the Imperial party left in a special train for Milwaukee The Grand Duke upon consultation with General Sheridan and other parties, has reconsidered the declination of the grand buffalo hunt and changed his programme accordingly He returns to Chicago from Milwaukee Thursday, and will give a reception to ladies and gentlemen at the Tremont House from seven to ten that evening He will go to St Louis, and will proceed from there via Kansas City and Leavenworth to Omaha where he will be joined by General Sheridan and a few members of his staff and proceed to Fort McPherson A camp will be pitched in advance from forty fifty miles distant in the heart of the buffalo country, and Spotted Tail and Red Cloud are to find the intention to make up a party from their bands and join in the hunt, these Indians having been permitted by the Government to visit these old hunting grounds to obtain their supplies for the winter

EXPORTANT PRICES

The prices named by the parties owning the real estate on what is known as Custom house square, on which the custom house formerly stood, are so outrageously exhorbitant that the commissioners said a case that they would not entertain them and informally expressed the opinion that they must come down at least one half According to the terms proposed the block would cost the government over $2 100 000 The prices range from $1 000 to $3 000 per foot The commissioners will undoubtedly ask for bids from owners on other blocks which are embraced in the law

THE GRAND JURY

It is understood that as soon as the new Grand Jury meet they will at once proceed to present additional aldermen bribing cases The special grand jury quit the work on Saturday because that was the expiration of their term

New Year's Day.

The night before New Years was gloomy enough, not a star shot down a gleam, and the fog was about impenetrable by gas light And the rain added to the disconsolate of the night, as if weeping over the dying year At midnight the cannon spoke and the bells tolled a requiem and pealed out a joyful chime The first of January dawned as bright as an April day there was nothing wintry in the wind or the landscape, but a beautiful clearness in the atmosphere, giving elation and buoyancy to the spirits The day was kept as a holiday, business was at a stand still, the banks and post-office were closed The Carrier Boys were generously remembered by many of our patrons The people wore their best attire and few were too great a distance to spend the day with the Happy New Year The social world which is but a contracted sphere, was not quite up to the knickerbocker standard of a New Year's day when a great was house at the end of the ladies receptions cigars on the gentlemen whether it was that enough of friends were so far that it was not worth the trouble, or numerous accidents discouraged the attempt certain it is that the customs were rather slighted So it was only at a few houses dinner and sociability enough to make it a very pleasant day with some high rare for the future.

SALE OF THE McKINNEY LEASE AT PLEASANTVILLE At the auction sale of the McKinney lease at Pleasantville on Saturday last the 29th ult the lease on which the Union Hotel stood was sold to M Laughlin Hancox Bailey for $1,500 The purchasers are part owners of the Cash Upwell lease the intention of these purchasers to erect a hotel on the old site of brick and in good style the coming spring The next to lease was sold to Simons & Bowser for $1 100 front twenty feet depth eighty five feet, the next two lots adjoining same size were purchased by Mr Denning at $200 Mr Dennis bought at auction and intending of building, for his college graduating class The balance of the McKinney estate on Second Street sold from $100 to $500 each The whole estate realized $6 000—a fair salvage

FIREMENS ENTERTAINMENT—The Rescue Hook and Ladder Company paraded the streets on New Years day, accompanied by Coleman's brass band They made a fine appearance In the evening they held a ball at Duff's hall, which was largely attended

The City of Titusville No 1 also held a ball at Kinney's hall and the light footed lassies appeared to enjoy themselves to their heart's content

PERSONAL—Mr J A Ledger of Centerville, Pennsylvania is general agent of Eugene Wright manufacturer of laundry and toilet soap, Cortland Pennsylvania Mr Redler will spend several days in this city canvassing for old friends and then devote some time to the other branches of his business Mr Redler is well known as an active reliable business man just the man to popularize a trade We have been referred to Mr Wrights soaps, he has now a factory of first-class proportions and a lively sale for all he can manufacture

MR JOHN O'NEIL Mr Anderson's head gardener, is famous for his early lettuce, and strawberries, corn and tomatoes Each have their season and a flavor of their own, but winter has its delicacies, and high ranks that prime ingredient of the salad, celery Without this crisp and bitter sweet condiment, boiled eggs would seem almost tasteless John has the best varieties of all vegetables, and knows how to bring each to its perfection

A BRIEF DINNER—Mr Thomas Goodwin, proprietor of the City Hotel and restaurant set a free table on New Years day, to which his patrons and the public were invited The ordinary was princely in its magnificence and comprised everything in the shape of meats game, fish, &c, to be found either in home or foreign markets The dessert was forgotten up in an elegant style Mr Thomas Goodwin has gained a wide and enviable reputation in the oil region as a caterer and landlord

MISS MADGE K FOSTERS evening school commenced the new quarter last night under the most favorable circumstances There are now 140 on the roll This school will close on Tuesday, Thursday and Friday evening in Odd Fellow's block Franklin street Miss Fosters terms for tuition are very reasonable, being only $500 per quarter Further particulars can be obtained by calling at the school room

"BEN" is now serving up the Duke Alexis to the customers of the West End Market Those glowing massive quarters, tricked out with delicate rosettes have been on exhibition during holiday week till the time has come to cut them up into rich, solid roasts and tender steaks, and now the choice cuts are going off rapidly First come first served

We give specials from Rochester to the HERALD and to Mr J G Brown, Esq, of Oil City relating to a mob which had attempted to break in the jail in that city and rescue a prisoner charged with a heinous crime, for the purpose of administering lynch law to the culprit

"THE DOOR OF OPPORTUNITY"—Subject for the lecture to night at the Universalist church eight o'clock, p m, by Dr Hartzell, of Albany This is the third lecture in the course of lectures under the charge of the Universalist Sunday School Literary Association

POLICE MATTERS—There were comparatively few arrests on New Year's day except for drunkenness A raid was made over made by the police on some of the fancy houses, and the fines of the women netted about $200 to the city treasury

MASONIC—There will be a meeting of the Knight Templars this Wednesday evening, at seven o'clock

The Ice Gorge Broken Up—Destruction of Property

The ice gorge in Oil Creek commenced a week ago opposite Petroleum Centre, and formed against the McGray hill It gradually extended back to Pioneer run, and from thence to Bull and Cow runs, and on Saturday morning last one mass of broken ice was wedged up for the entire distance between these two points About four o'clock on Sunday afternoon the ice began to give way at the lower end, and the movement reached the upper end about twelve o'clock the same night No damage of any consequence was done below Foster run, but on the Sherman flats and the John Foster farm above, the loss was quite considerable Mr Roter's wells on the Colwell farm a little above Pioneer Run, were damaged to the extent of about two thousand dollars The hands had all left with the exception of the engineer, Mr R Willard, who stood at his post until the rising water put out the boiler fire, and he escaped by means of a rope fastened to the opposite bank A breakwater was formed by one of the derricks, which prevented the entire works from being swept away All of Mr Roter's wells, engine houses, machinery, derricks and tanks were, however, more or less damaged On the John Foster farm above, were a number of shanties occupied by families, most of whom escaped before the gorge broke Some of them however, remained and escaped miraculously The Second National Petroleum Co's producing wells on this farm were five in number, but the danger being anticipated they were shut down This whole property was completely wedged in with heavy oak timber Mr Alfred Hoglund, the foreman, together with Wm Brown Samuel Stewart, A Truxel and Harry White remained in the engine house and two of the other hands, named John Riley and O Clairy, took refuge in Mr David Kocher's house, a few rods distant These in the engine house soon found themselves compelled to break the south roof and escaped by the force of a swinging dart the danger the men got on the the other two men got on the top of Kocher's house Matters grew worse every moment, the derricks began to twist and shake and one of them was carried away, as was also the front part of the engine house The tanks all started but only one got away A small raftsman had built a raft of timber on the surrounding banks and everything was destroyed by the flood Fifty dollars was offered to a raftsman from the shore and soon a daring Dutchman named Wm Bart, was seen to pull out into the stream and drift down with the end of a pine log, however, instantly swept by the strength of the current, and was passed up several hundred yards in a very much old than any The foreman attempted to reach him in one of the derricks, but he fainted in the arms of the men and was secured with difficulty The long hours passed away, and as if in a dream to the dangers the men underwent by killing rats as they floated by on the ice They were all finally rescued but in a condition when the rescuers had hard work to restore them to life Mr J Ira Davis, brother of the man who had escaped their sense, was in a well with two children, at the first sign of the deluge, and carried the first step in water to the place of his house, nearly opposite C Kess Mr Wm Reid living in another house, lost two cows and a pig Mr C D Wilber who occupies the Sherman Well Post office building, had previously removed his family, the damage to his goods was about $100 The Cow Run bridge was carried away, as also was the Titusville Pipe Line Company's, which was anchored in the creek at this point Mr Hyland lost all of his clothing, and the whole of the property was more or less damaged Mr O S Howard, the superintendent of the farm, estimates the loss at not less than $5 000 the tanks being all carried away with 10 barrels of oil and much of the machinery being knocked out of gear and the pipe lines and connections twisted and broken D Foster and Mr W C Chapin who have wells lower down the creek were also damaged to the extent of about $1 000

THE VOICE OF LIGHTNING—A violent thunder storm prevailed at Centreville on Sunday last about three p m The wheel wright and black-smith shop of Dailer & Bro was struck by lightning, and demolished or perforated the roof in an extraordinary manner, and shivered the corner posts of the building and played havoc generally The residence of William Rice, two miles north of Centreville, was also struck by lightning The electric fluid descended the lightning rod melting the forks, twisting the rod, and glancing off at the first insulator to the chimney, passing down the chimney to the ground floor, entering the sitting room striking and shattering a chair in which Mr Rice was sitting at the time, throwing that individual violently against the wall giving him a severe shock also offending his daughter, Mrs Sarvies, in a severe manner The current passed from the chair to beneath the stove and then pierced the floor to the cellar The main current passed down the lightning rod outside, excavating a cavity to the depth of several feet in length, casting up the frozen clods to the height of the house It is fortunate that the effects of the visitation were not of a more serious character

WINTER seems to linger in the rear, says the calendar but we have for days almost felt the breath of spring The green grass has appeared, and it required no great stretch of imagination to fancy the twinkling of the blade, and warbling of the birds But there are signs of coming spring in trees as well as in the trees and fields It seems to be a breaking down in commercial prices like the breaking up of ice in the creek We expect that the stores of our merchants will be gorged with ladies when they hear of the fall in prices and their eyes will sparkle with delight when they read Mr Andrews' double column Mr Andrews submits his list of prices and the reduction in dress goods, carpet department etc

THANKS—The boys of the Hook and Ladder Company No 1, wish to return their thanks to Chief Engineer Bosch for the handsome "spread" that he set out at his residence on Spring street, and in which they were invited to participate, after the parade on New Years day Such little social delicities are appreciated by the firemen, and do more to keep harmony and pleasant feeling in the department, than long speeches without anything to eat or drink

TOFFEE sets in endless variety, at the City Drug Store

IF you want to be pleased and benefited go and hear Dr Hartzell to-night

FOR cheap dry goods, go to R T. Hazzard's store, on Spring street.

Varieties.

—In anticipation of sleighing many of our young sports had engaged the cutters in town for a week previous to New Years, to do their calling in style But there were other more studious and far-sighted young men, who kept one eye on the barometer, and the other on the "weather signal" dispatches in the papers, and they secured all the carriages So when New Years day came the former went slopping about in rubber shoes, while the latter rode in chaises, and smoked from the very bottom of their soles—which were nice and dry

—If Josh Billings ever wrote the following lines, (and he didn't,) he must have seen the little escapade that happened on Pine street the other night;

Git out your dads old "may back,"
And git your gals consent,
Hit the old nag an awful crack,
And see the old thing went —To see many of the young men in town on New Year's day one would naturally think that the new system of moveable sidewalks had been inaugurated, and the "boys" had not yet become accustomed to the gait But seriously, isn't it about time we had the sidewalks widened, when a young man of ordinary size cannot walk along the common thoroughfares without colliding with the buildings and awning posts on one side or the other? An eight-foot sidewalk don't begin to furnish room for navigation to many, and as for a single plank crossing, they never make it without help

—The young men who did the most calling on Monday were sad spectacles about six o'clock in the evening Not because they had imbibed spirituous liquors too freely, for such was not the case, but they were surfeited with sponge cake, candy, and coffee, until their vest buttons had disappeared, and then wandered about town hunting for Congress water to wash the crumbs out of their throats

Oh woman on a New Year's day
You always have things your own way
You cram our mouths with cake and pie
And turn us out—so awful dry

—The fellow who "can clean out the whole town" whip policemen faster than they can come on, and who amuses himself by screeching at five minute intervals, like a Piute warrior when he gets his hand in a horse hair, was in town yesterday sporting as usual for a fight He knocked down a peaceable and inoffensive wooden Indian in front of a cigar store, and had begun to chew down a telegraph post, when a policeman was seen approaching, and he disappeared

—We saw him—the last new year's caller, at an early hour yesterday morning rapping at the door of the Savings Bank, corner of Spring and Franklin street He had been calling all night, and was now trying to get into the bank to pay a respects to the ladies of the land His stove pipe hat locked as though the Roberts block had fallen upon it, and it was evident that a tidal wave of coffee or champagne had surged across his once immaculate shirt front His necktie was twisted into a hangman's knot under his left ear, and his swallow-tailed coat had been split from pole to pole We left him pulling at an imaginary door bell, and murmuring softly, "Wish you happy new-year"

—The ice gorge went out of the creek at an early hour on Monday morning The well and property owners in the vicinity however did not experience much loss, notwithstanding they were "flooded" at one time, and the prospects for a crush were imminent

—Messrs Brace Brothers, the enterprising proprietors of the steam laundry, have decorated their building at the head of Franklin street with a new sign This laundry is one of the most popular institutions in the city, and those who have patronized the same once will never desire any other

—Yesterday was as bright and sunny a day as spring could boast, and the streets were well filled with people who were out enjoying the brief interlude of April weather in January

—The Sunday News with its new head and inside dress, made a fine appearance on Sunday last Those who subscribed for it when it was in its old shape, and without any local attraction whatever, would fail to recognize it now, filled with the fresh news of the week from all parts of oildom, and a general selection of literary matter that it is a pleasure to peruse

—A good many young men with long faces, are seen about these days, hanging around in the vicinity of cigar stores, chewing pieces of boards, and furtively watching each other Do not pass these poor boys by with scorn, they were once happy like yourself, but "swore off" smoking cigars, on New Years day, and are now unhappy and ready to commence again

—A little attention to the hens now, giving them milk punch, oyster shells, red pepper, and other stimulating compounds, will set them to laying like everything

—It costs just two dollars to tickle your gull's palate with a plain oyster stew at Denver City, the bivalves are worth one dollar per dozen on the half shell, and yet—and yet—they are not happy"

—A terrible warning to people who read newspapers is conveyed in the sad fate of a citizen of Indianapolis, who recently lost a finger by reaching for a paper with one hand, and holding the front door with the other His foot slipped on the icy door-step, and in falling his finger became jammed in the door, with the result above stated In this city it is customary to send the servant girl to the door for the morning paper, and the result is there are more girls with four fingers on one hand than you could count in a week

—There was an incessant popping of revolvers and shot-guns within city limits, the night before New Years, and several nervous people glanced eagerly at the papers the next morning for particulars of "shooting affrays," attempted burglaries, &c We never could see the use in banging away with powder, at the old year just because he is going to leave, and it must be quite unpleasant to the young new year as he timidly steps over the portals, to have some great "hunk" of a boy, up and empty both barrels of a shotgun in his face

—A cool and calculating chap who resides in this city, after capering all the night before New Year's, came to the conclusion that he would not make any calls He figured thusly I have ninety-six lady friends, of whom eighty-four will have liquors on their tables I never refuse to sip a gill or two of wine when offered, which would make on an average eighty-four gills, or ten and a half quarts of mixed liquors I would be compelled to stow away during the day The human stomach when filled holds six quarts, balance to be accounted for, four and a half quarts I haven't the tankage and can't do it" He was firm, and is now employed by T S Arthur to write temperance stories, at a salary of six dollars a week

Editors Morning Herald.

A letter from this "red hot" section of the oil regions may not be deemed unworthy of a place in your columns. Times are decidedly lively yet, although the excitement has become considerably toned down the past week or two, owing to the fact that a great many of the operators and transient population have "gone out to America," to spend the holidays at home, in a civilized manner

A few lines descriptive of what Petersburgh was and is may be of interest to HERALD readers The town is located about two and a half miles northward of Foxburg station on the Allegheny Valley Railroad, and previous to the discovery of oil here comprised about a dozen houses Few towns can exceed this place in beauty of location It contains two churches, in which both German and English services are held, one being Reformed and the other Lutheran The people were nearly all descendants of Pennsylvania Dutch settlers from east of the mountains, and were mostly of a thrifty and industrious character, although considerably old fogyish An irreverent resident remarked to the writer that the natives were all Democrats of the old school, many of the kind which regularly vote yet for old Hickory Jackson He also said there was a large congregation in his neighborhood named Best, all of whom were born at Best's church, were married at Best's church, always lived at Best's church, and finally died and went to h—l from Best's church

The inhabitants of St Petersburgh, although not mingling much with outside barbarians, were much less old fogyish in their notions than the above community The oil has changed the old town vastly already, and in case success still attends development, it is only in its infancy At present the town is stretched along the main road fully half a mile long, and large numbers of lots are sold out or leased, upon which buildings will be erected in the spring When the excitement was at its height, lots 40 by 100 feet brought from three hundred to one thousand dollars, and other lots in good location, 30 by 40, are rented out for a term of five years at a rental of $200 per annum, merely for the ground

Nearly all kinds of business are represented now by one or more houses, and most kinds are overcrowded already, and will not more than pay expenses until spring at least Hotels, boarding-houses and saloons, or buildings intended for them, make up nearly one half of the town, and in consequence of the competition good board and lodging can be had here about as reasonably as up on the creek A few weeks ago all the beds about town were occupied about three deep, and many had to lie on floors or go to Parker's for bede

There will be a host of applicants, at the January term of court, for license to sell liquor, but whether they get license or not, they yet do a rushing whisky trade at any rate When the one hotel monopolized most of the business it was a rare thing to see the bar, when it was not crowded by thirsty suckers, viewing the ceiling through their glasses—whisky glasses of course Mr Whiting purchased the St Petersburg Hotel shortly before the oil excitement broke out here for $1 000, held it for some three months and sold it to Mr Ballost for $6,000, who yet runs it, and derives therefrom a rich harvest of stamps It is stated that steps were taken some time ago to have St Petersburg made a borough, and it is to be hoped that the effort may be successful, as at times roughs, rowdies, cutthroats, &c, seem to be the ruling class, and settle their little difficulties in their own way Hardly a day passes that from one to a dozen of the riff raff have not "heads put on them" by some of their equally whisk-fied companions Mr Ballost has been compelled, on more than one occasion, for the safety of himself and employes, and his house, to close his bar, when his constituents became more than usually lively, or, as they would say, were having a more than usually good time

A large number of wells are going down or preparing to begin drilling as soon as other, considered test wells, are completed Quite a number are nearly down, and a great many more are far advanced toward completion and will be completed in January

The great depth to which it is required to sink the wells here (about 1,100 feet) and the hardness of the rock, requires about three months to drill them The developments now in progress hereabouts, are scattered over a vast extent of territory, and will fully decide whether St Petersburg is to be the center of the great oil producing district now known, or whether it has already seen its best days, and will go down as rapidly as it went up But its prosperity seems to be assured, for almost daily is chronicled the striking of large or at least good paying wells in its vicinity One of the exceptions is the Gates & Co well, located just below and east of the town, which is only doing about two barrels per day As a good well was expected, both from the nature of the territory and its location with regard to the other large wells, the failure has caused operators in the vicinity to be considerably less sanguine of big strikes The well has been torpedoed already, but with no beneficial result, and some operators even doubt that the well was drilled into the "third sand"

The Deming and McBride well, located near by on a ten acre lease, is only down about 400 feet, although drilling has been in progress upon it for several months already Mr Campbell, of Rouseville, is the contractor, and has long been noted "on the creek" as a rapid and successful driller of wells, but in the present instance, he has had his work of drilling greatly retarded, and often suspended by a miserably defective rig, and also by striking a vein of fresh water, and being compelled to draw the casing, and drilling deeper before casing again, and meeting with many other mishaps calculated to vex the driller's pious soul

Several other wells near by are down, some of which will be completed and tested this month The following is a list of some of them Pete Dower & Co, and Finley & Co, have each wells down about 900 feet Dower had the misfortune to have his engine house burned down lately, and drilling on his well was suspended a week or so in consequence, but he is at work again The fire was the work of the "dead beats" who numerously infest this place, and who, during the cold nights flock to, and make themselves at home in the engine houses near town during the absence of the drillers on Saturday and Sunday nights The George Brothers have a well located near the west end of town, which is down about 400 feet and proved The drilling on this well as was the case with many others, was greatly delayed in consequence of a lack of water during the very cold weather

The owners of the Gosse well are erecting a new rig, and will soon be drilling their No 3 This company have a lease of fifty acres adjacent to their well

The original Gosse well is yet steadily doing from fifteen to eighteen barrels per day

Blakeslee & Co, formerly of the Tarr farm, are drilling a well about a mile west of town, on Spruce Run, and had just struck the sand when the "jars" broke and are not yet removed from the well They thought that they had struck the "sand" in this well nearly a month ago, but it proved to be only the "stray sand" which has so often mystified experienced drillers from the up creek oil regions Had the contractor not met with an unaccountable amount of bad luck, by the breaking of tools and plugging the hole, this well would have been completed a month ago

A new rig was erected just in the rear of the St Petersburg Hotel, and the drillers would soon have been at work, but the storm of a week ago leveled derrick and engine house with the ground, which necessitates considerable delay

A well, located just beyond the northern end of town in a ravine, which has been drilling since last August, was completed on Friday last, at a depth of nearly eleven hundred feet

The well on first beginning to pump started off as if it was going to be a very large well, but something soon got wrong with the valves and it ceased pumping entirely There is hardly a doubt but it will be a paying well, although not likely a large one Finley Bell & Co, who are extensive operators here, are the owners of this well

An immense number of derricks are erected and the drilling commenced on many wells on territory adjacent to the famous Huling well A well near the latter is down through the second sand, from which an immense volume of gas issues the roar of which, as it rushes from the casing, can be heard at a considerable distance The old well is yet about holding its own, doing from seventy to eighty barrels daily It is reported that the owner of the Huling well has sold it, the prices given as the prices received for it vary all the way from forty to one hundred thousand dollars

"Antwerp City," which is located near Huling lease, has grown to be quite a place and is still growing rapidly, and providing that half of the wells now going down near it are paying ones, it will become quite a brisk town in six months from the present time

Operations on Turkey Run are brisk, many wells are considerably advanced toward completion, but few, however, will be tested within twenty days Mr Huling tested a well last week on Turkey Run, and it is reported as being very nearly a dry hole

Several good strikes were made on territory southeast of this place last week One of them owned by Riddle, Ralph & Co, on the sand first being struck the flow of oil and gas took fire and burned the derrick down leaving the cable and tools in the well The derrick has been erected again and drilling to resume It will doubtless prove to be one of the largest wells of this section

The Walker Brothers, of Rouseville, are the lucky owners of a fifty barrel well, struck last week They have a five acre lease, and propose putting another well down thereon as soon as practicable

These latter strikes are on territory about three quarters of a mile from St Petersburg, and near the Moriat well, which has been pumping about three months, making from sixty to seventy barrels per day

On Saturday last a fine strike was made on a lease adjoining the Deming and McBride lease, which is at present pumping from fifty to sixty barrels and increasing This well is owned by Mr Frothingham an operator well known in oil circles upon the creek

There is a great deal of complaining heard here in consequence of the delay and annoyance in receiving any shipments by railroad Cars and freight are often weeks, and often nearer a month, on the way between this and Oil City, before the party for whom the shipment is made receives his goods The accommodations for receiving freight at Foxburg station are about as bad as they well can be, and many are having their goods come by way of Emlenton station The space between the hill and the river is so narrow at Foxburg that it can never be made a good shipping point for the amount of freight that comes for the Petersburg oil regions There is talk of opening a new road from this place to a point on the railroad above Foxburg, which would be shorter than any now in use It is to be hoped the project may be carried into effect at an early day

But Mr Editor, for fear your readers will set me down as the champion long winded correspondent, I will stop short off for this time OCCASIONAL

A SHOCKING CASE OF INFANTICIDE Early yesterday morning a newly born female child was found in a vault belonging to the premises of Wm D Lammont, in the alley between Spruce and Walnut streets running from Monroe to Diamond street Immediately on the discovery Mr Lammont gave notice through policeman Miller to Justice Strouse, who is for the present acting coroner, deputized by coroner Curriss, who has left the city A jury was empanneled and witnesses examined, the evidence is summed up in the following verdict

COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA } CRAWFORD COUNTY }

An inquisition indented and taken at Titusville, in the county of Crawford, the 2nd day of January, 1872, before me, Simon Strouse, acting coroner of the county aforesaid, upon the view of the body of a female infant, then and there lying dead upon oaths of E B Chase, J I Smith, S S Frend, H R Hubbard, J J Quinlan and J Wood, good and lawful men of the county aforesaid, who being sworn on the part of the Commonwealth when, where, how, and after what manner the said female infant came to its death, do say upon their oaths, that one Carrie Sorreson is the mother of the said female infant, and that it was born alive, and that it came to its death by some cause unknown to the jury

In witness whereof, as well the aforesaid acting coroner as the jurors aforesaid have to this inquisition put their names and seal on the day and year, and at the place first above mentioned
